FEAR THAT TOM BATES IS DEAD

Veteran Cobbler is Thought to Have Suicided or Died From the Deadly Drug.

MISSING SINCE LAST NIGHT

Several Things Point to Contemplated Self-Destruction—Addicted to Morphine Habit.

There is a chain of circumstances that confirms the belief of the family and friends of Tom Bates, the veteran shoe cobbler, that he has suicided or wandered away in a demented condition. All Rushville was talking about the matter today and those who have been closely associated with the man, fear that he has ended his life. Yesterday morning Bates left his home in East Third street and he has not returned since. It was the last his wife and eleven-year-old daughter, Bessie, saw of him and as this is most unusual both are prepared to hear the worst and their grief is most pitiable.

Bates is employed in the shoe repairing department of the Bliss & Cowing store and has a shop on the second floor. He came to work as usual yesterday morning and was seen sitting on his bench last night at 6:15 o'clock by Frank Bender, who has charge of the tailoring and bushing department on the same floor. But he did not go to his bench at the regular hours and when he did not return last night his wife became alarmed and asked the assistance of friends in trying to locate him.

City Marshal Price had charge of a searching party this morning and afternoon that went along the banks of the creek and mill race in hopes of finding some clue to the missing man, but the day's work proved fruitless. It is as if the earth had opened and swallowed Bates for no one seems to have seen him after 6:30 o'clock last night.

He has unfortunately been addicted to the morphine habit for many years and last evening, between six and seven o'clock he went to a local drug store and purchased fifty cents worth of the drug. After that he was not seen by anyone that can be found.

As is always the case when one disappears there are a number of things that can be pointed out that was done or said last night to be construed to mean that that one contemplated suicide and made preparations for it. Such is the case in this affair. William Finley recalled today that Bates, who has made his shoes for a number of years, told him several days ago that he had better call and get the lasts he used as patterns for Finley Co. something might happen to him. Then again, when Frank Bender went to his tailoring establishment this morning he found the latch key that Bates always carried in his pocket, on his table. Bates put it there last night after he locked his own door.

The employees at the Bliss & Cowing store have spent much of the day in searching every out of the way place where they thought it might be possible for Bates to be.

Bates is sixty-eight years of age, and to those who were not acquainted with the fact that he was addicted to the drug habit, he always appeared to be a queer individual. He has been in poor health for several years, but insisted on working at his trade. Bates served three years in the marine service during the Civil war, but never applied for a pension. The consensus of opinion is that he either wandered away while in a demented condition from the effects of the drug or that he took a large amount with suicidal intent and then jumped into the river or mill race in a fit of despondency over ill health. The hope of all his friends is that he will be found in the land of the living before another sun, as his death would be a severe blow to his family.

KEYNOTE TO BE HEARD TONIGHT

Evangelist Yeuell to Preach His First
Sermon in Great Revival Now Under Way.

HE WILL ATTRACT VISITORS

Connersville People Are Coming Friday on Special Cars Over the
I. & C. Line.

Evangelist Yeuell will arrive this evening from Remselser, coming in over the C. H. & D., at 5:51 o'clock. Mrs. Yeuell will be with her husband, and during the revival will organize a "Sunshine Chorus" with the children.

Ellsworth Rogers, the singer, led the chorus in the first drill on evangelistic songs last night. The book he used was "Famous Hymns" by E. O. Excell of Chicago. Mrs. D. H. Dean will preside at the organ and this means it will be done in her usual efficient manner.

The revival starts tonight and Evangelist Yeuell will preach his first sermon and will doubtless strike a keynote for the whole meeting. Mr. Yeuell will be entertained at the Windsor hotel.

Members of the Christian church will go to Rushville Friday evening, says the Connersville Examiner, to attend the meeting at the Christian church of that city, conducted by Evangelist Yeuell.

Yeuell's next meeting is with the Christian church here and the membership of the church is anxious to hear him.

Rev. Yeuell is from London, England, and is an evangelist who is well known among the churches of this country. His most effective meetings in Indiana have been at Frankfort and Elwood. There were more than 800 additions at the former place and 637 at the latter. His banner meeting so far was a union meeting in Boston, Mass., with 1500 additions.

The Connersville church is being put into systematic working condition to receive this great evangelist as soon as the Rushville meeting is over.

The Connersville church is being minutes before seven o'clock; returning, leave Rushville about fifteen minutes past nine o'clock. The run is made in twenty-eight minutes. Any person wishing to go, whether a member of the church or not, may have the same rate, and is invited to go.

JOHN P. BROWN THE EDITOR

John P. Brown, who with the members of his family, is spending the winter on his catappa plantation in Baldwin county, Alabama, thirty miles north of Mobile, arrived home this morning, to spend a few days, says the Connersville News. Mr. Brown is home to arrange for the publication of his bi-monthly magazine, "Arboreculture," and will return to the southland as soon as this work is complete.

The Arboreculture bi-monthly magazine, with a national circulation, is printed in the Rushville Daily Republican job printing department.

STARTLING WAS DISCOVERY MADE

Connersville Minister Thinks Electricity Can be Produced From Chemicals.

AND AT A VERY SMALL COST

Rev. L. C. Bauer and W. H. DuFraa, Inventors, Have Applied for Patent.

If the statements of two gentlemen of character, in this city, are borne out by practical demonstration, Connersville is likely soon to attract the attention of the whole civilized world says the Connersville News.

Rev. L. C. Bauer, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Mr. W. H. DuFraa, both of whom are devoted to the science of chemistry, and who have been working together in a series of experiments during the last few weeks, announce today that they have discovered a process by which they produce electricity by chemical means, without machinery, and at about two-thirds less than the usual cost of its generation.

This announcement is sufficient to arouse the interest of scientific men everywhere, for this problem is one that inventors have been trying to solve for many years. Thomas A. Edison himself has given the matter much thought, and not long ago he announced that he would not be surprised, on any morning, to awaken and hear that some one of the hundreds of inventors who were toiling at the problem, had solved it.

Rev. Baur and Mr. DuFraa state that they discovered the process by which the fluid could be generated several days ago. They began a long series of tests, all of which have strengthened their faith in the discovery. They state that, by their method, the electric current is generated in such a form that it is available for all sorts of application. Its production is comparatively inexpensive, and by their various tests they have removed all doubt, they say, of its efficiency. Their experiments have been held in a private laboratory, and the particulars of their discovery, of course, are not known.

If the process they allege to have discovered proves true to the claims they make, its application will work wonderful changes in methods of lighting. Messrs. DuFraa and Bauer have applied for a patent already, and will continue their experiments on a larger scale. Some time soon it is expected that they will give demonstrations of the new process, and of its application in the way of ordinary light and power.

CAME BACK AFTER FORTY FIVE YEARS

Coin Issued By Father Strayed Into Son's Money Drawer After Long Wandering.

REMARKABLE CO-INCIDENCE

The Greenfield Reporter publishes the following story about a brother of Frank Early, proprietor of a local barber shop:

During the civil war merchants were permitted to issue small coins of the material and appearance of United States pennies, for the sake of convenience, but not recognized by the government, and only redeemable by the firm issuing them.

In counting the receipts of the store Mr. Early came across a penny that struck him as being somewhat peculiar and investigation revealed it to be one of these pennies bearing the date of 1863. The remarkable feature of the story and the co-incidence comes from the fact that it was a penny issued by "S. S. Early & Co., Dealers in General Merchandise, Brownstown, Ind.," The head of this firm was the druggist's father, and that this coin should wander over the world for nearly half a century and drop into the cash drawer of the son is indeed remarkable. Mr. Early was eleven years old when the coin was made and can barely remember his father having a bag of these coppers. He will keep the coin for an heirloom.

MORRISTOWN WILL BE IN DRY COLUMN

Nine Flowing Wells Are Scattered Around Over the Town—People Are Blessed.

WATER IS PURE AND HEALTHY

Other towns in the State may go dry but the beautiful little city of Morristown will always have a large degree of wetness. The town is so situated that it is easy to get flowing wells there. There are now nine scattered around over the town and the water is sparkling, clear and pure and exceedingly healthy. Dr. W. M. Pearson has it piped all over his house and the water is now as free as the air because it flows a large and continuous stream when wanted. The nice thing about it is there is no one to read meters or present a big bill the first of each quarter. It does not hurt but helps a town to have the kind of wetness that Morristown does.

WOLF UP AGAINST CHARGE OF LUNACY

The Suicide Artist of This City is in Bad Again in Lima, Ohio.

PROBABLY NOT GET OUT WHOLE

A dispatch from Lima, Ohio, says that lunacy proceedings have been filed in the probate court against Charles Wolf, the suicide, formerly of this city. He escaped from the Lima hospital where he had been placed by the authorities and was later captured and taken into the police court. It is their opinion that he is not insane but merely tries to get out of work. If the judge finds that to be the case he will probably be given a long workhouse sentence.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Miss Lizzie G. Orvell and Charles E. Beeraft.

FRIDAY, CARNATION DAY.

In commemoration of the birthday of William McKinley, the martyred president of the United States, Friday, Jan. 29, the country over will be observed as carnation day. The carnation was McKinley's favorite flower and annually his memory is revered by patriotic citizens by wearing the carnation. Rushville people, no doubt, will properly observe the day.

ASK FOR BETTER TRAIN SERVICE

Citizens of Sexton, Mays and Vicinity Circulating Petitions to be Presented to Commission.

FOR MORE EFFICIENT SERVICE

Land Owners Donated Property to L.
E. & W. and Think They Should be Given More Consideration

The citizens of Mays, Dunreith and Sexton are circulating a petition, which will be presented to the Indiana Railroad Commission some time in the near future, asking that they be given better service on the local branch of the L. E. & W., which operates between here and New Castle. They claim in their petition that the road as now operated is very unsatisfactory to them for the following reasons:

Only one train each way is run every day and for this reason the people of the towns named above and vicinity are unable to visit Rushville which is the logical trading place for them, being nearer and also their county seat. These citizens would like very much to have train accommodations to this city, but, as it is, they must come in the evening and go back the next morning.

The crew which has charge of the single train does all the switching work in the yards in New Castle. If they have not finished their work at the time they are scheduled to leave New Castle, they wait until they do finish and for this reason are generally several hours late. Any passenger wishing to leave New Castle on this train must go to the station at the time that the train is scheduled to leave, for fear that it might go out on time and as a rule has to wait several hours until the crew perform their duties in the yards. But the passenger must be at the station on time, as the train might accidentally leave according to its schedule.

There is no station at Dunreith and for this reason the travelers must wait in all sorts of weather as the train very seldom passes on time. There is really no scheduled time at that place as there is no agent or telegraph station and the traveling public must guess the time or make a schedule of their own. The petitioners believe they should have a waiting room even if the train has no scheduled time to stop.

In view of the fact that the land owners donated the property for the right-of-way with the understanding that they should have efficient train service, they feel that their wishes should be given due consideration and at least a part of them granted. Although the passenger business on the road at the present time is not very good they feel that it would be much better and would be beneficial to the owners to establish a better and more efficient service.

The petitioners then ask that the following requests be granted: That an additional train be run daily in order that they may be able to trade and visit in Rushville; that they operate on schedule time so that their patrons will not be compelled to wait for several hours in order to be sure they will catch the train; and that they erect a new station at Dunreith so that the traveling public will not be forced to stand for several hours in the middle of the road and wait for a train.

LANCED EYE.

Dr. Lowell M. Green lanced the eye of Joe Keating last night. An abscess had formed on the eyelid which threatened to become serious if something was not done immediately to prevent it.

Local Hall of Fame

Lewis Sexton, bank cashier, delights in keeping an artistic and profitable vegetable garden and also cares for many rare plants and flowers about the house. For years he was much interested in amateur photography.

William Moffett, the plumber, has a well defined hobby for firemen. He knows of all the chiefs of the fire departments in the larger cities throughout the country and is up on new fire fighting paraphernalia. When he goes to a city he always calls at the various fire engine houses.

Frank Porter, saloonist, is a typical old maid. He has a place for everything and has everything in its place. He keeps his pockets full of trinkets that he picks up and knows everything he has on his person and can tell just exactly where it is located. He always picks up pins.

Will Jay, farmer and representative from Rush county in the legislature, is a confirmed story teller and can use several dialects with marked ability. He is an old line Quaker, but still can get off a rich Irish brogue without having to say "be-goora," so you will know it is an Irish story. He was formerly a practicing dentist at Richmond.

Jacob Feudner, proprietor of the Daily Republican, is probably the best posted individual on religious matters and cults of any in this part of the State. He is even acquainted with the cults and practices of the savage tribes and the many interesting eastern races. Is also an adept in machinery matters. Was a clock repairer and tailor in his early life in Germany.

COUNTY OPTION IN THE BALANCE

Fight on Option Unit In Indiana Legislature.

SEEKING TO MAKE IT LOCAL

Bill Reported in the Lower House of the Indiana Assembly Today Would Substitute for the County the Ward and Township as the Unit in Measuring the Public's Opinion as to Prohibition or Continuance of Liquor Traffic—Senator Elect Shively Urges Democrats to Stand by Their Platform.

Indianapolis, Jan. 28.—What will probably prove the most interesting and most strenuous feature of the legislature came up this morning when the house committee on public morals reported on the Kleckner bill to repeal the county local option law and substitute the ward and township as a unit.

All of the Democrats on the committee signed the report favoring the bill. The Republicans presented a minority report.

It is believed that the bill will pass the house in its present form. Senator Elect Shively is here urging the Democrats to stand by their platform.

Deluge of New Bills.

The deluge of new bills continues to swamp the house. Forty-two were introduced yesterday. Some of them are unique. Representative Clore of Johnson county would force traction companies to refund half of the fare for passengers who are unable to get seats on cars. Clore also introduced a bill by request to establish markers on county and congressional lines.

Representative Strickland introduced a bill to appoint a commission to investigate the advisability of abolishing county poor farms and establishing a state institution for the dependents. Another campaign publicity bill was introduced by Representative Garrard.

Senator Mattingly introduced in the senate a bill fixing the salaries of all of the county officials in Indiana and doing away with the fee system. The only fees that would remain if his bill is enacted into law would be the $2 per diem allowed clerks and sheriffs while attending court. The fee for recording deeds would be reduced from $1 to 75 cents. Senator Mattingly says he has studied the needs of every county and that his scale of salaries is fair.

Senator Kimmel introduced a novel bill to compel a man to give half of the road when overtaken by another. The following bills have been passed:

By the Senate—Providing for half holiday for county officers where county seat is a city of 18,000 or more; providing that vacancies in regular jury panels shall be filled from jury box under same provisions now pertaining to drawing of the jury in the first instance.

By the House—To print 10,000 copies of the report of the fish and game commissioner for the years 1907-1908; providing judgment for costs in the upper court on cases appealed from the justice of the peace court when judgment is not lessened in upper court; reducing clerical force in governor of state's office and creates the new office of governor's counsel at a salary of $3,600; requiring that township trustees shall discontinue schools where the average daily attendance falls to twelve or fewer, providing roads, streams and bridges will permit; permitting Hanover college, a Presbyterian institution, to adopt a new charter making it non-sectarian.

A unanimous report favoring the enactment of the Indianapolis Merchants' association bill for a uniform system of bookkeeping was adopted by the senate.

SIGNIFICANT MEETING

Governor Hughes White House Guest Tonight by Special Invitation.

Washington, Jan. 28.—At the White House tonight President Roosevelt will give a dinner to the justices of the supreme court of the United States and other distinguished guests.

Among those present at the dinner will be Governor Hughes of New York and Mrs. Hughes, by special invitation of the president. His coming to Washington at this time has aroused great interest among the politicians in view of the fight he is making in his state for direct nominations. It is said that the president is interested in the contest between the governor and the Republican machine of his state.

Hunting More Venreman.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 28.—The first day of the second week of the trial of Colonel Duncan Cooper, Robin Cooper and John Sharp for the slaying of former Senator E. W. Carmack, closed with no further progress in the selection of the jury. Deputy sheriffs are riding the country to summon the third venire of 500 talesmen, which will report tomorrow.

Glazier Convicted.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 28.—Ex-State Treasurer Frank P. Glazier of Chelsea, whose failure in December, 1907, resulted in the closing of the Chelsea Savings bank, of which Glazier was the head, and which had on deposit about $685,000 of state funds, was last evening found guilty by a jury in the Ingham county circuit court of misappropriating state funds.

PEOPLES COLUMN

Editor Republican:

I want to first say I am not a drinking man. I do not go in saloons. But I am a business man and I believe in fair play. I would not want to see the saloons driven out of our town and stay in other places. And I want to say a few words to a lot of fellows who are hollering for county option. Most of them do not have any interest in Rushville, money interest or anything else. If you want money for a factory, horse show or anything else they never give anything. They are against improvements. Still they want to tell us how to run our town. When they started to pave Main street these same chronic kickers were the loudest in protesting against it. I would like to see about five good saloons in Rushville. If we drive them out, some of our business will go and blind pigs will come. Yours for a square deal.

R. J. D.

January 27.

Editor Republican:

Let us not dare to step in front of a great moral wave which is sweeping the country lest we lose our spiritual life. Temperance and doing away with the saloon is a great work no matter how it is accomplished. Down with the liquor traffic and the hell holes that ruin so many of our boys and girls. We have seen what the good people of seven other counties in Indiana think about it. Let not Rush county bring shame to her citizens.

E. H. W.

Editor Republican:

The "Loyal Republican" in yesterday's Daily voiced my sentiment. I am also a loyal Republican and a consistent temperance man. Last fall the Republican party presented to the people a moral question—that of county option—a temperance measure which was decidedly a forward step in the right direction. But what did a majority of the people in this State do? They voted it down.

They voted "wet." Now, the very parties who voted it down, want now what they did not want last fall. That argument about this being a "moral" question now, when it was not a moral question last fall is nothing more than downright hypocrisy. While I am a true Republican and a consistent temperance man, I will vote for "wet."

IT'S THE SAME HERE.

(Greensburg News.)

The nickel amusement in Greensburg has reached such proportions that they have become a factor of considerable importance in the amusement world. The three houses of the city have by constant application to business and close selection of films that please all, built up lucrative trade, and it is safe to venture a surmise that more than half the citizens of Greensburg are enrolled in the class of regular patrons.

We Were Proud to Get This Notice

In the American Press, a national weekly newspaper for newspaper folks, one page was devoted in the last issue commenting and commending the enterprise of the Rushville Daily Republican on some matters that appeared recently. A page taken from the Daily Republican was reproduced, reduced from a photograph. The Republican feels highly elated over the generous notice as it came as a surprise and very seldom, if ever, any newspaper in the country receives so much space from this publication.

TRAVELS WITH GEORGE STUART

W. J. Ramsay, the Evangelistic Singer, Coming to First Presbyterian Church.

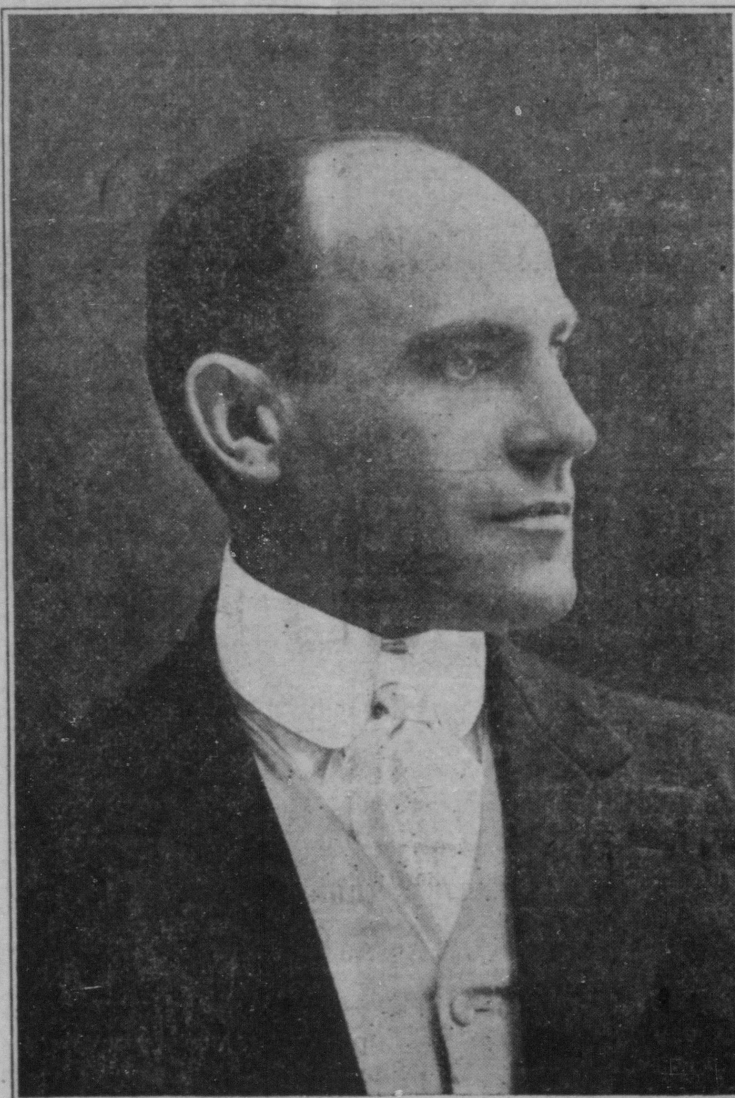

BIG HELP IN THE MEETINGS

Mr. Stuart Highly Recommends Ramsay and Declares He is a Great Personal Worker.

W. J. Ramsay, the Evangelistic singer that comes to the First Presbyterian church Sunday January 31, is the man that travels with the Rev. Geo. R. Stuart who addressed the Men's Big meeting here last winter on "My Stump Digger." This is proof that he is a great singer. Mr. Stuart has had him with him in his work Profs. Excell and Gabriel two great leaders and Singers, but he writes the pastor that "Mr. Ramsay is the best man I ever had associated with me in Evangelistic work." Mr. Ramsay is not only a consecrated, Christian man, but one of the best chorus choir leaders we have ever had; not only this, but he knows how to get fine congregational singing, and is an excellent personal worker and will be a help to any man in a meeting."

A man like this will certainly be a treat to the public and a great help to the city; indeed no one can afford to miss an opportunity to hear this great leader in song. The Gospel will be both sung and preached in its purity at the First Presbyterian church from the 31 to Feb. 14. All are invited to see and hear this able and talented man.

W. J. RAMSAY.

COCHRAN ASKS HEAVY DAMAGES

Suffered Painful and Permanent Injuries in Saw Mill at Orange.

ACTION AGAINST JOHN STONE

Plaintiff Was Caught by Pulley and Dragged Many Feet—Injured His Shoulder.

John W. Stone, proprietor of a saw mill at Orange, is made defendant in an action for damages in the sum of $5000, the plaintiff being Walter Cochran of this city, says the Connorsville Examiner.

The suit was filed late this afternoon by the law firm of Watson, Titsworth & Green of Rushville.

In his complaint, a rather lengthy document, Cochran sets forth that he was formerly in the employ of the defendant, and that on May 16, 1906, he was set to work making certain repairs to a portion of the flooring of the mill. While he was engaged in this task his clothing became entangled in the pulley and before the machinery could be stopped he was dragged a considerable distance, and finally thrown to the ground, with the result that he was severely hurt. He alleges that his right shoulder was permanently injured, and that he is incapacitated for manual labor for all time. In conclusion the complaint states that the plaintiff incurred a heavy expense in the way of doctor bills, and he asks that he be given all proper relief in the premises.

This suit involves a demand for heavier damages than any action that has been brought in the Fayette county circuit court for some time.

WONDERS OF VELOCITY.

A Piece of Thin Cardboard Will Cut Through Wood.

Velocity has a great deal to do with one substance's ability to break through another, and it is remarkable what can be accomplished by a comparatively soft substance against a much harder one when the former is given enough velocity. A bullet made of a tallow candle would smash flat if fired against a board from a toy gun, but when shot from an army rifle it will go right through the board. A stream of water has been known to have such swiftness of movement that a sword was broken in two when a strong man tried to cut it through. Cyclones have been known to drive such frail projectiles as straws well into a tree.

An interesting experiment showing what a soft substance can do may be performed by attaching a Bristol board disk to the motor of an electric fan and setting it to revolving at the fan's usual rate. If a piece of wood, such as a lead pencil, for example, be carefully applied to the edge of the revolving disk, the wood will very readily be cut through. Of course if the disk were to revolve slowly the wood would soon blunt its edge.—Pathfinder.

BY THE WAYSIDE

We love the man with the rose on the tongue; the man who sees the boy's dirty face, but mentions his bright eyes; who notices your shabby coat, but praises your studious habits; the man who sees all faults, but who is quick to praise and slow to blame. We like to meet a man whose smile will brighten up deadness; whose voice is full of music of the birds; whose handshake is an inspiration. He makes us forget our troubles as the raven's croak is forgotten when the woodthrush sings. God bless the man of cheer! There is plenty of trouble here and we need no increase of it. CHAPTER VIII.

HOW SENATOR LANGDON GETS A SECRETARY.

LANGDON leaned over and seized the arm of his interviewer. "See here, young man, why aren't you in politics?" he said. "Too busy, senator," replied Haines. "Besides, I like the newspaper game." "Game?" queried Langdon. "Oh, I use the word in a general sense, senator," replied Haines. "Pretty much everything is a 'game'—politics, newspaper work, business of every sort. Men and women make 'moves' to meet the moves of other men and women. Why, even in religion, the way some people play a—"

The speaker was interrupted by the appearance of Hope Georgia, who was searching for her father. "Stay here and listen to what a hard task your old father has got," said the Mississippian to his daughter, whom he presented to Haines with a picturesque flourish reminiscent of the pride and chivalry of the old south. "He has the idea that those New Yorkers who read his paper would actually like to know something about me."

Hope Georgia stole many glances at the reporter as he talked with her father. He made a deep impression on her young mind. She had spent almost all her life on the plantation, her father providing her with a private tutor instead of sending her to boarding school, where her elder sister had been educated. Owing to the death of her mother the planter had desired to keep Hope Georgia at home for companionship. This good looking, clean cut, well built young man who was taking so big and so active a part of the world's work brought to her the atmosphere that her spirit craved. He gave one an impression of ability, of earnestness, of sincerity, and she was glad that her father approved of him.

Hope Georgia, by the same token, did not escape the attention of the interviewer. Her appealing charm of face and figure was accentuated by her daintiness and a fleeting suggestion of naivete in poise and expression when she was amused. His first glance revealed to Haines that her eyes were gray, the gray that people say indicates the possessor to have those priceless qualities—the qualities that make the sweetest women true, that make the maiden's eyes in truth the windows of her soul, the qualities that make women womanly.

She sat close to her father, her hand in his, listening intently to the unfolding of a story of what to her was a mysterious world—the man's world, the strong man's world—which many a woman would give her all to enter and play a part therein.

"What else have you against a political career, Mr. Haines?" went on the senator, taking up their conversation.

"Well, my age for one thing. I haven't any gray hairs."

Langdon waved this objection aside. "I might arrange to pool ages with you. Sometimes I think we want young men in politics, like you."

The reporter shook his head. "Old in age and young in politics, like you, Senator Langdon," he replied. "Politics I sometimes think is pure hypocrisy and sometimes something worse. A man gets disgusted with the trickery and dishonesty and corruption." "Then," drawled Langdon, "the thing to do is to jump in and stop it! I read in the newspapers a great deal about corruption. The gentlemen in national politics whom I have had the honor of knowing—Senator Moseley, an intimate friend of thirty years; my present colleague, Senator Stevens, and others—have been as honest as the day is long."

"But the days do get short in November, when congress meets, don't they?" laughed Haines, rising. "I'm afraid I've taken too much of your time, and I seem to have talked a lot."

Langdon was amused. "Does look like I'd been interviewing you. I reckon each one of us has got a pretty good notion of what the other man's like. I wanted it that way, and I like you, Mr. Haines. I've got a proposition to make to you. They tell me I'll need a secretary. Now, I think I need just such a young man as you. I don't know just exactly what the work would be or what the financial arrangements should be, but I think you and I would make a pretty good team. I wish you'd come." He turned to his daughter, with a smile. "What do you think of that, Hope Georgia? Isn't your dad right?"

Smiling her approval, the young girl squeezed her father's hand in her enthusiasm.

"I think it's a splendid idea, dad; just great! Won't you come, Mr. Haines?"

"Won't you come, Mr. Haines?" Haines? We—eh—I—I know my father would like to have you." As he stood before his two new found friends—for such Haines now considered the Mississippian and his daughter—he could not suppress feelings of surprise tinged with uncertainty. He had, like other newspaper men, received offers of employment from politicians who desired to increase their influence with the press. Sometimes the salary offered had been large, the work so light that the reporter could "earn" the money and yet retain his newspaper position, a scantily disguised species of bribery, which had wrecked the careers of several promising young reporters well known to Haines, young men who had been thus led into "selling their columns" by unscrupulous machine dictators.

Haines knew that the Mississippian had no ulterior purpose to serve in his offer, yet he must have time to think over the proposal.

"I thank you, senator," he finally said. "I appreciate the opportunity, coming from you, but I've never thought of giving up the newspaper profession. It's a fascinating career, one that I am too fond of to leave."

Langdon started to reply, when a delightfully modulated southern voice interrupted:

"Father, I've been out with Mrs. Spangler to look for some other rooms. I don't like this hotel, and I found some that I do like."

Haines turned to see a handsomely gowned young woman who had the stamp of a patrician's daughter in her bearing and her countenance—a brunette, with delicate features, though determination shone in her eyes and appeared in the self contained poise of her head. She was the imperious type of beauty and suggested to Haines the dry etchings of Paul Hellen. He instinctively conceived her to be intensely ambitious, and of this Haines was soon to have unexpected evidence. Gazing at her with a sense of a growing admiration, Haines gave an involuntary start as Senator Langdon spoke:

"My daughter, Miss Carolina Langdon, Mr. Haines," said the senator. Carolina was interested.

"Are you the newspaper man who is interviewing father? I hope you'll do a nice one. We want him to be a successful and popular senator. We'd like to help him if we could."

The correspondent bowed. "I should say you certainly would help him to be a popular senator," he declared emphatically, failing to notice that Hope Georgia was somewhat annoyed at the enthusiasm displayed over her elder sister. In fact, Hope Georgia was suffering a partial if not total eclipse.

"I'm leaving it to Mr. Haines to put down the things I ought to say," broke in the senator. "He knows."

"Yes, he knows everything about Washington, Carolina," exclaimed Hope Georgia spiritedly. The older girl spoke eagerly. "I wish you'd interview me, Mr. Haines. Ask me how I like Washington. I feel as though I must tell some one just how much I do like it! It is too wonderful!"

"I'd like mighty well to interview you, Miss Langdon," enthusiastically exclaimed Haines.

"I hope you will some time, Mr. Haines," remarked Carolina as she said goodby. Watching her as she turned away, Haines saw her extend a warm greeting to Congressman Charles Norton, who had advanced toward the group.

"Strange how the Langdons treat him as a friend—intimate one, too," he thought. "What if they should learn of Norton's questionable operations at the capitol; of his connection with two unsavory 'deals,' one of which resulted in an amendment of the pure food law so that manufacturers of a valueless 'consumption cure' could continue to mislead the victims of the 'white plague,' Norton, who had uttered an epigram now celebrated in the parlors of Washington, 'The paths of glory lead but to the grave.'"

"Miss Langdon is very beautiful and attractive, sir," said Haines, resuming with the senator.

"Yes," drawled the Mississippian. "Girls in the south generally are."

"Well, I must be going. I'll think about your secretaryship, Senator Langdon. Perhaps I can find some one."

"Wish you'd think about it for yourself," observed the senator, while Hope Georgia again nodded approval. "It would be a hard job. There are so many matters of political detail about which I am sadly inexperienced that really most of the work would fall on the secretary."

But Haines paused. Again he thought over Langdon's offer. Its genuineness appealed to him. Suddenly there dawned on him an idea of just what it might mean to be associated with this honest old citizen who had asked for his help—who needed it, as Haines knew only too well. He would be the senator's guide and confidant—his adviser in big matters. Why, he would practically be United States senator himself. He knew the "inside" as few others in Washington. Here was a chance to match his wit against that of Peabody, the boss of the senate; a chance to spoil some of the dishonest schemes of those who were adroitly "playing the game." He could bother, too, the intriguing members of the "third house," as the lobbyists are called. He could direct a lightning bolt into the camp of Andy Corrigan, who claimed the honor of being "speaker of the third house." These thoughts crowded into his mind. Then, too, he would become practically a member of the Langdon family and have association with the two charming daughters—with Carolina Langdon.

"It would be a great chance," he murmured half aloud; "next thing to being a senator."

The old Mississippian heard the young man's words.

"I reckon it would," he drawled in agreement.

"You feel sure you want me?" urged the other.

Langdon chuckled. "I asked you," he said.

Haines came abruptly to decision. "I've thought it over, senator, and it

ANOTHER NEW ERA FOR CUBA

Island Republic Again Comes Into Her Own.

THE INAUGURATION OF GOMEZ

American Occupation of Island Ceased

Today at Noon When Jose Miguel Gomez Took Oath of Office as the Second President of the Republic—

Simple Ceremony of Inauguration

Made the Subject of Much Rejoicing Throughout the Island, the Day

Having Been Made a General Holiday.

Havana, Jan. 28.—With the administration of the oath of office at noon today to Jose Miguel Gomez, the new president of the republic of Cuba American occupation of the island ceased and the history of this country entered on a new era. This afternoon Charles E. Magoon, until today provisional governor of Cuba, will embark for the United States, leaving the government entirely in the hands of President Gomez and his advisers. Most of the 5,000 American soldiers who have occupied the island since 1906 have been sent home and the remainder will leave by April 1.

The oath of office was administered to President Gomez and Vice President Zayas by President Barreiro of the supreme court of Cuba in the presence of a great throng of Cubans and Americans and other foreigners. Today is a general holiday throughout Cuba, and from all the six states men prominent in the political, commercial and social life of the island have gathered to attend the inauguration. The principal officers of the American troops still in Cuba, re-enforced by the officers of the American warships in the harbor, made a brave showing in their dress uniforms. The inauguration ceremonies were preceded by a parade of the rural guards and other Cuban troops, in which the American soldiers did not participate, as it was thought that their presence in the procession might recall too strongly the fact that for more than two years the island has been under foreign domination. At the close of the ceremonies President Gomez was warmly congratulated by the foreign envoys, who extended to him the good wishes of their respective governments for the welfare of his country. A conspicuous figure was Mr. Aversa, representing the Vatican. Many messages of congratulation were received notably from President Roosevelt and William H. Taft, president elect of the United States. He has many friends among prominent Cubans.

Battleships Salute Gomez.

Word of the taking of the oath of office by President Gomez was sent to the American battleships Maine and Massachusetts lying in the harbor as representatives of the United States government. Immediately the shores of the harbor began to echo with the reports of a presidential salute fired in honor of the new president by the three vessels. The booming of the guns was greeted with applause by the crowds of Cubans, who hailed it as the sealing of the official recognition by the United States of the new government.

The second American occupation of Cuba by the United States began in September, 1906, when the resignator of President Tomas Estrada Palma since deceased, was followed by a short period of disorder in the island. Under the Platt amendment the United States intervened and established a provisional government in the island with William H. Taft as provisional governor. Judge Taft was succeeded in October, 1906, by Charles E. Magoon.

Gruesome Labors at Messina.

George Christie, son of former King Milan of Serbia, and at one time a claimant to the Serbian throne, has accepted an engagement to sing in a Budapest cafe.

Big Fleet's Movements.

Nice, Jan. 27.—The entire American fleet of sixteen battleships will be plowing the Mediterranean westward tomorrow, headed for Tetuan bay, on the north coast of Morocco, where it will reassemble on Jan. 31 to coal and provision for the homeward journey.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason, mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must be law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

DEEP GLOOM IN HOPKINS CAMP

Senator's Dubious Situation Grows Worse and Worse.

TWO LEADERS DESERT RANKS

In the Expressed Belief That the Time Has Now Gone When Instructed Votes Can Be United on Hopkins, Two of the Senator's Staunchest Supporters Go Over to Foss, Their Action Being Marked by the Applause of Their Colleagues—Sensational New Turn in the Illinois Senatorial Deadlock.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 28.—Senator Albert J. Hopkins's candidacy for re-election to the United States senate suffered severely in the joint session when four more ballots failed to break the deadlock. Senator Hopkins's vote on the final ballot of the day dropped down to 73, but the loss of votes appears only secondary in importance to the blow administered by the actions of Representative Morton D. Hull, who was chairman of the Republican house caucus, and Senator W. Clyde Jones, chairman of the steering committee in the upper branch of the general assembly. These gentlemen publicly renounced any further allegiance to the Hopkins candidacy, either because of primary or caucus instructions, and voted for George Edmund Foss. Representative Hull led the break from Hopkins on the nineteenth ballot and Senator Jones followed on the senate roll call in the same joint ballot. It is doubtful if similar action by any other men in the legislature would have been considered as harmful to Mr. Hopkins's interests. Hull and Jones are the leaders in their respective branches of the general assembly, and have stood firmly, up to this time, for the things which the primary and caucus represent. Mr. Hull's action was greeted with cheers and applause from the opposition to Hopkins. Likewise Senator Jones's action was unexpected, and it, too, aroused a storm of approval from the combined opposition to the leading candidate.

Shot Girl and Himself.

Philadelphia, Jan. 28.—Mazie Kenney, a burlesque actress twenty years old, was shot and almost instantly killed by an unidentified man who was infatuated with her. He then fired a bullet into his own brain and died shortly after his removal to a hospital. The identity of the murderer and suicide is unknown to the friends of the dead actress. They state that he has been paying attention to her for some time, although she was a married woman.

Wanted in Tennessee.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 28.—Governor Gillett has honored the requisition of the governor of Tennessee for the return of W. W. Wallace, a former county clerk of Warren county, Tennessee, indicted on a charge of embezzling $272 in county taxes, more than two years ago. Wallace is now under arrest in Los Angeles.

Laporte, Ind., Jan. 28.—Mrs. Albert Decker, wife of a Laporte county farmer, was accidentally shot and badly mangled by her eighteen-year-old brother, Henry Murdock. The boy was handling a shotgun and did not know it was loaded.

The whole iron and steel trade is dull, and while it is recognized that January is usually a quiet month, there is keen disappointment at the manner in which new business has flattened out, says the Iron Age.

GETTING AT FACTS IN SECRET SERVICE

Congress Puts Chief Wilkie Through Inquisition.

Washington, Jan. 28.—For more than three hours John E. Wilkie, chief of the government secret service, was before the house committee and was plied with questions in regard to the secret service. The significant fact was brought out at the hearing that although the limitation placed upon the expenditure of the money for secret service last year in the appropriation bill reduced the number of men employed by the secret service under Chief Wilkie by nine, those same nine men were placed on the rolls of the department of justice. The secret service in the department of justice was described as consisting of twenty-five men in addition to the nine dropped by the treasury department secret service.

JOHN E. WILKIE.

EXPUNGED FROM RECORD

Willett's Tirade Against the President Blotted Out.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The house of representatives adopted the special committee report recommending the expunged from the record of the recent speech of Mr. Willett of New York, denunciatory of President Roosevelt. The postoffice appropriation bill was amended in several particulars, the most important being the transforming of 500 assistant superintendents, clerks, etc., of stations from the $1,000 to the $1,100 class, while the provision for the payment of necessary expenses of division superintendents, railway mail clerks and others while away from headquarters was stricken out. As amended the bill was passed, carrying an appropriation of over $234,000,000. A short legislative session of the senate devoted to the transaction of routine was brought to an abrupt close by a motion to go into executive session to consider the Canadian waterways treaty.

Seven games will be rolled this afternoon and seven tonight. On Jan. 31 Franz and Gilbert will go to Chicago and roll a like number of games there against their opponents of today. The contestants have posted a purse of $500, and, in addition to that, there will be hundreds of dollars wagered on the side. Franz is at present champion of Cleveland, and Gilbert was Cleveland's best bowler three years ago.

SENATORS HOLD THAT STEPHENSON IS SAFE

Lack of One Vote on Joint Ballot Doesn't Hurt Any.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 28.—United States Senator Isaac Stephenson lacked but one vote of being re-elected to the United States senate for a full term on the first ballot taken in joint assembly.

There being but two senators absent the total vote was 131, thus requiring 66 votes necessary for a choice. Senator Stephenson was able to line up but 65. The cause of his failure to win out was the desertion from his ranks of several of the assemblymen who voted for him when the vote was taken in separate bodies. The cause of his failure to hold his initial strength is said to be the sensational charges of alleged corruption in the primary hanging over the senator.

Senate Not Disconcerted.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Members of the senate committee on privileges and elections do not concede that the failure of Senator Stephenson to receive a majority of the votes cast by the joint assembly of the Wisconsin legislature defeats his re-election. On the contrary they contend that having received a majority of the votes cast separately by the two houses of the legislature, he is now legally elected, and it is indicated that such would be the decision of the committee in case the joint assembly should now decide for someone else unless a different state of facts should be shown.

INDIANA POLITICS

By Robert G. Tucker.

Indianapolis, Jan. 28.—Superintendent Schumaker of the Anti-Saloon League of Indiana gave out the following statement today: "The results of the elections held in the counties of Putnam, Decatur, Tipton and Hamilton exceeded our most sanguine expectations. Decatur county had been conceded by both the 'wets' and the 'drys' to be an exceedingly close county, but the results there were far better than expected. The most sanguine workers did not expect more than 2,000 majority in Hamilton county. Tipton county was expected to go dry, but the workers there did not expect the majority to be so large. One of the leading citizens of Putnam county had predicted on the morning of the election that the county would not go dry by more than 500 majority. The brewers made an extraordinary effort in the last-named county to defeat the 'drys,' particularly because of their desire to make it appear that none but Republican counties—hence, Republicans—believed in the county option law. Inasmuch as Putnam county is Democratic by about 600, but went dry by 1,552, it can readily be seen that temperance people in all parties are a unit in support of the law. The county of Tipton also went Democratic last fall by from 150 to 300, but the 'dry' majority of 1,581 ought to convince even a brewer that people of all parties in Tipton county believe in county option. It is my opinion that if any doubt had existed in the minds of a majority of our legislators concerning the wisdom of retaining our law, Tuesday's results will sweep it away. Our county option law will stand, unquestionably."

A bill for an appropriation of $500,000 for a new state library and museum building was introduced in the house yesterday by Representative Gifford of Franklin and Union counties.

The bill was introduced at the request of Demarchus C. Brown, state librarian, who said yesterday that there is urgent need for such a building owing to the crowded condition of the state house. The bill provides that the building shall be erected adjacent to the state house grounds by a commission of three to be appointed by the governor. The commission is authorized to purchase 24,000 square feet of ground as a site for the building.

It is provided in the bill that the members of the commission shall give bond for their faithful performance of their duties in the sum of $10,000 each. The commission, it is provided, shall be known as "The State Library and Museum Building Commission," and each member shall receive $5 per day for each day of actual service as well as his actual expenses.

The proposed building shall accommodate not only the state library and state museum, but shall accommodate the department of public instruction, the state board of education, the public library commission, the Indiana Historical society and the Indiana Academy of Science.

AMUSEMENTS

Sam S. and Lee Shubert's production of "The Wolf," a drama of the Hudson Bay country, is said to be one of the greatest successes of the season. RUSHVILLE BOOZE RECEIVES A JOLT

Man Arrested in Connersville Said it Would Make You Pick Your Own Pockets.

HAD A DARK BROWN TASTE

J. B. Cox had the appearance of a man who was suffering from the effects of a dark brown taste when he faced Judge Hankins this morning, says the Connersville Examiner. He admitted that he was drunk last night and made the further confession that he had acquired the "bundle" in Rushville, this last admission explaining his inability to give his name when placed under arrest.

"That Rushville whiskey is liable to cause a man to pick his own pockets," muttered Cox as he was led back to the bastle after making an ineffectual plea for a suspension of sentence on the promise that he would "blow" the town. He drew $1 and costs, $11 in all. Cox said his home was in Paris, Ky.

He had recently returned from a pleasure trip to Cuba. It is believed that his mind was affected.

Carnation Day

Coming as it does on the eve of the inauguration of another son of Ohio, William Howard Taft, as President of the United States, Carnation Day, the birthday of William McKinley, will receive more attention this year than it has since the day it was first celebrated.

The hopes of the men who started the movement and made January 29 a special day on the calendar will probably be more fully realized than ever before.

The favorite flower of President McKinley was the red carnation, but at this time the pink and white varieties are worn on the birthday of the martyred President with just as much appropriateness. This was made necessary because of the scarceness of the red flower in years past and by a decree of the National Carnation Association it was declared that any carnation could be worn on that day by those who would pay respect to the memory of McKinley.

For this reason there is now no fear of any shortage and the florists will be able to fill all orders.

President McKinley was shot on September 6, 1901, and died on the 14th. If he had lived until the present time he would celebrate his sixty-sixth birthday on January 29.

Great Bargains in Suits and Overcoats

The O. P. C. H. Great $10,000 Surplus Sale

Tremendous Reduction in every Department

Last week we began the greatest sale of clothing ever held in Rushville. Our sales during the week were enormous; this week it will undoubtedly amount to greater figures than before. Our store controls the entire distribution of such makes as, "Adler," Alfred Decker and Cohn, Frieburg Kahn Co. A twenty-five dollar suit or overcoat of our makes has fine tailoring, both style and more perfect finish than any forty dollar custom suit you could buy.
